Why Ireland?

EXL is a global data and AI company that delivers analytics and digital solutions to sectors like banking, insurance, healthcare, retail, utilities, and travel. It combines data, domain expertise, and AI-enabled transformation for enterprise clients. Ireland is a strategic base, with EXL's International Business HQ and AI Innovation Lab in Dublin providing access to skilled talent, a connected business environment, and European and global markets. EXL also collaborates with Irish research institutions and uses Dublin as part of its innovation infrastructure to develop next-generation AI solutions, co-create with clients, and enhance its EXLerate AI platform.

What EXL Does

EXL helps organisations use data, analytics, AI, and digital operations to improve decisions, efficiency, and business outcomes. Its services span artificial intelligence, data and analytics, customer experience, risk and compliance, finance and accounting, and industry-specific digital transformation.

Ireland and the AI Supply Chain

For EXL, Ireland contributes to the AI supply chain by providing:

- access to AI and data talent
- links with universities and research institutions
- a location for AI product and solution development
- a collaborative base for enterprise client innovation
- an international hub for scaling AI-led business operations
